HARDING VIEWS PROBLEMS; COX VISITS CAPITAL

MARION, Ohio, July 12.—Transportation and high cost of living problems were discussed at conferences today between Senator Harding and Senator Cummins of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, and J. L. Tabor of Barnesville, O., head of the Ohio State Grange. Both came at Harding's request.

Senator Cummins later emphasized to the newspaper correspondents the gravity of the railroad situation.

"The inability of the railroads to do the business of the country is costing the country every day more than the German war cost the people any one day," he said, but added that the people do not favor government ownership at this time at least.

FOUND HIM "KEENLY ALIVE."
Tabor said he discussed the agricultural situation and the high cost of living with Senator Harding, whom he "found keenly alive" to the importance of a proper recognition of agriculture and who realizes the necessity of "agriculture properly functioning if the nation is to enjoy enduring prosperity and tranquility."

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 12.—Governor Cox arrived here from his home at Dayton this morning. This afternoon he was to confer with Franklin D. Roosevelt, his running mate, expected to stop off for a few hours on his way to Washington from San Francisco.

ANSWERED WITH HIM.
The Governor was accompanied from Dayton by former Congressman T. T. Ansberry of Ohio, who arrived from San Francisco Sunday. The Franklin County Democratic

Health Center Asks County For $58,702 Appropriation

The budget of the Alameda County Public Health Center for the fiscal year of 1920-21, calling for an appropriation by the county of $58,702, was presented to the board of supervisors today.

Chairman John F. Mullins stated that the matter could not be acted on at once, as the need for economy and keeping the tax rate down are so great that the matter must be given minute investigation. He ordered the request referred to the committee of the whole.

The entire budget of the health center amounts to $75,802, but there are annual receipts of $17,100 from the clinics, the Junior Red Cross shop and other sources, leaving slightly more than $58,000 to be provided by the county.

HEALTH CENTER BUDGET.
The budget is made up as follows: Salaries, $11,720; office supplies and expenses, $1,500; repairs and replacement of equipment, $4,170; dental supplies, $1,500; incidental expenses for the clinics and otherwise, including drugs, clinic supplies, printing, laundry, X-ray work, automobile upkeep, taxes and insurance, $20,295; construction of heating system and minor improvements, $1,717.

The amount asked this year is about $18,000 more than was appropriated last year.

Concession of automobile traffic on the bay ferries has led to an attempt on the part of the cities affected to take action looking to relief. A request from the Alameda city council that members of the board be appointed to meet tomorrow night with that body and members of the San Francisco board of supervisors, the Oakland city council and officials from other points around the bay.

Glee Club, which helped to sing Cox to victory at San Francisco, serenaded the nominee at a noonday reception in the rotunda of the capitol. The Governor announced he would hold conferences twice daily with newspapermen at 10:30 and 3:30.

JAPAN MEANGE, SAYS STEPHENS

patrol. He will charge that gaps in this border service have permitted thousands of Japanese to enter the United States in violation of the "gentlemen's agreement" and of the immigration laws.

The governor charges that the federal government has refused credence to complaints filed with it and that prosecutions of Japanese arrested in this country, after they have entered through Mexico, are almost impossible to obtain. It is because all of the men in the immigration service on the border are kept busy looking over passports and permits of persons going from one country to another that there is none left for patrol work.

The committee will be asked to give this complaint particular attention when it visits the southern part of the state. It is understood that Governor Stephens has made a careful investigation of the situation and has the routes of the smugglers mapped out and a suggested plan of inquiry which he says will back up his charges.

With the convening of the committee the Japanese through their organizations and as individuals, have issued printed notices asking a correction of certain customs which have been applied to them from Americans. These notices argue against Sunday labor, and would regulate the conduct of Japanese in public places.

Senator James D. Phelan of San Francisco and Colonel John P. Irish of Oakland will be the principal witnesses. Irish holds that the Japanese are the cause of the farm labor, and constitute no menace to the state, while Senator Phelan will explain the picture bridge system, and ask remedies.

boy and girl, as Elizabeth took her small brother out to play early Saturday afternoon. The children seemed content.

SMUGGLE BATH SUITS TO CREEK.
But they slipped away from their elders to the creek where they donned bathing suits smuggled out. The place they chose was the favorite bathing spot in the creek. It was deep, but the children apparently did not know that. What happened thereafter is only surmise.

Mrs. Hattwick was in the habit of depending on her eldest daughter when she was busy with the infant, the third of the Hattwick children. When the dinner hour arrived and Elizabeth and her brother did not return, the mother started to look for the children, but great alarm was not felt until night slipped down over the mountains and no trace had been found.

Then the whole colony volunteered to make up searching parties. All night the posses searched the mountains. Sunday morning a small group decided that they would drag the creek. It was 10 o'clock when the bodies were brought to the surface.

MOTHER UNABLE TO CALL FATHER.
Mrs. Hattwick and her children were spending a two weeks' vacation at "Our Ranch" near Olympia, sixteen miles from Los Gatos, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marcum. Hattwick is a salesman.

It was not until this morning that the grief-stricken mother was able to give information which would assist the authorities and those who were interested in her plight to reach her husband. He was notified today.

Broker Is Sued for Apartment Damages

Claiming that E. B. Kilburn, a San Francisco broker, ruined the furnishings in an apartment leased to him at 504 Lake Park avenue, Mrs. Grace V. Benson is seeking $955 damages in the superior court. The trial is before Judge Joseph Koford, who returned to the bench today after an enforced vacation during which he underwent an operation for appendicitis. Mrs. Benson claims that while the apartment was occupied by Kilburn grease and ink spots were distributed over the walls and furnishings requiring renovating which cost the sum sued for.

CITY MAY FORBID CARSTEP RIDING

Amendment of the city ordinance prohibiting riding on fenders and roofs of street cars, to prevent persons from riding on car steps, may result from the death of two employees of the Bethlehem shipyard in a street car accident on the approach to the Webster street bridge on July 2.

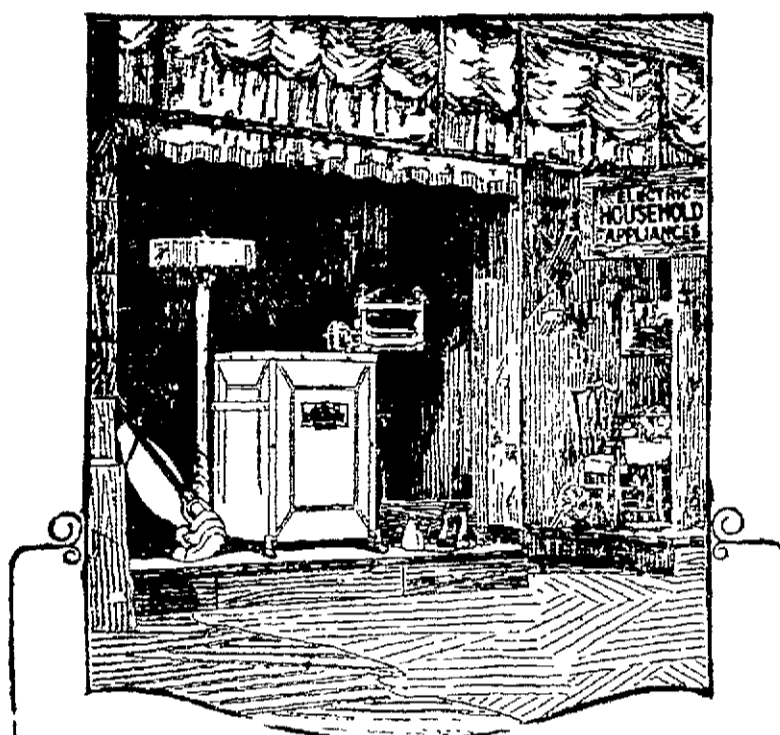

A copy of the coroner's verdict in the case of George E. Sutton, one of the victims containing a recommendation that the present ordinance be amended to prevent another accident of the kind, was sent to Lon W. Cummings, city clerk, this morning by Coroner Grant D. Miller, with the suggestion that the council take steps to carry out the recommendation.

The present measure, Ordinance 1470 N. S., prohibits riding on fenders and roofs of cars, but not the steps, according to Miller, who informed the council that the inquest developed that fact that during rush hours in the shipyards men ride on the steps on both sides of cars. The coroner's jury also recommended that the car company take steps to put through the same preventive measure.

Former Empress EUGENIE IS DEAD

MADRID, July 12.—The former Empress Eugenie of France is dead here today.

Death occurred from acute intestinal inflammation. She passed away quietly in the presence only of her son, Prince Louis, nephew of the Duke of Alba, at whose residence she died, was in France, and the other members of the family were absent.

Empress Eugenie had long suffered from catarrhs and had been operated on for catarrh. Full imperial honors will be accorded at her funeral.

Preparations are now under way for the opening of Empress Eugenie's will. The only member of the family now in Madrid is a niece, Eugenie Marie de Montijo, former empress of France, in Granada, Andalusia, Spain, May 5, 1826. Her maternal grandfather was William Kirkpatrick, United States consul at Malaga, who was a native of Scotland, but a naturalized American.

She was educated in France, Spain and England. She met her husband, Emperor Napoleon III, first in 1851, and married him in Notre Dame cathedral, Paris, January 30, 1853. Prince Napoleon, her only son, who was the prince imperial, was born March 16, 1856.

The empress had great influence over her husband and on several occasions acted as regent during his absence.

At the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war, many accused Eugenie of having been responsible for the commencement of hostilities. Nevertheless the one-time empress generally received respectful sympathy, and even after old age had crept upon her, she was reverently greeted by those who saw her in Paris parks enjoying sunshine and talking with children.

In the Tuilleries gardens, the stern-voiced gendarmes looked the other way when she was plucking flowers. Sometime ago Eugenie lost the sight of one of her eyes and she begged that she might be taken to Spain before she became entirely blind. Her wish was gratified and last April Eugenie again saw the beauties of Spain despite her 94 years.

Delegates stamped and whistled. The convention named a committee of twelve to confer with the Committee of Forty-eight in an effort to develop a common ground on which all could meet.

C. J. France, Seattle, who presented the forty-eighters' invitation, told the convention the question of platform was "incident" and that beneath it are the "economic principles" for which all of you and us can fight.

Rice Men Gain Shift of Venue In Water Fight

MARTINEZ, July 12.—Judge Latimer this afternoon granted a change of venue to Alameda county in the Antioch water injunction suit. A restraining order will be asked in Oakland tomorrow or Wednesday, it was announced.

MARTINEZ, July 12.—After a two-hour argument this morning in the water injunction suit of the lower river land owners against the upper river rice growers, Judge R. H. Latimer decided at noon that the motion for a change of venue would be heard first.

The argument this morning was on whether the chance of venue motion or the continuance of the temporary restraining order. Arguments on a motion to change venue are in progress in the afternoon and a decision is expected this evening. The city of Antioch's attorneys announced that they would make an effort to have the temporary restraining order granted by Judge A. J. Wetmore last week, and later vacated, ordered reinstated.

The suit is declared to be one of the most important ever filed in Northern California in view of the fact that it not only threatens the present $60,000,000 rice crop that is growing in the fields, but it threatens the future of the industry.

Stanley Moore, one of the counsel for the rice growers, intends to argue that a suit filed by a municipality cannot be tried within its confines and will seek to have the case assigned to the Superior Court of San Francisco.

Following the filing of the suit a temporary injunction had been issued and was made returnable today, but Judge Latimer set it aside temporarily when he was advised that the defense would seek a change of venue.

The city of Antioch has long been claiming that the excessive demand made upon the river by the water has reduced the flow in the river to such an extent that the drinking water of Antioch, which is taken from the river, is salty because of the salt wash from the bay.

The principal counties affected by the suit are Butte, Yolo, Tehama, Colusa, Glenn and Sacramento.

Charles P. Merry, secretary of the California Rice Growers' association, in discussing the case said that an order granting a change of venue is their only hope. If the appeal should be denied, he points out, the temporary injunction will be put in effect and arguments will then be heard in regard to making it permanent. During that time the rice men will see their crops practically ruined.

The residents of Antioch contend that until the rice growers commenced to make heavy demands upon the river for irrigation water, there was no backwash at that point and the local water was fit to drink. Especially during the last year it is contended that the water was so salty that it is better as of no value.

McCOMBS AVERS HE DISCOVERED BOURBON 'MOSES'

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Claiming to be the original discoverer of Governor James M. Cox as a presidential possibility, and firm in the belief that the convention could have done nothing else but nominate him, William F. McCombs, of New York, former national chairman of the Democratic National committee, has given out an interview of the recent convention.

He says Cox, at all times, controlled more than one-third of the vote; and that McAdoo and Palmer never had a chance. Because the last two were strong with officeholders and because a "class vote" would not win, they were eliminated.

"It was not the State of California that carried the Democratic ticket in 1916," he continued, "but Ohio's failure to vote with the Republicans. And the Democrats of Ohio are now supporting a man who will win."

BANDITS SWEEP FROM AUTO AGAIN

Automobile bandits who have been operating in the Oakland streets and have time and again brazenly defied capture at the hands of the police, escaped once more last night after they had held up and robbed J. E. Gardner, 1663 Franklin street.

Although the auto squad was sent on chase within ten minutes it failed to pick up the trail.

Gardner was stopped at East Thirty-fourth street and Park boulevard by the two men, whose description tallies with that of the pair who held up Edward Bourne at Eleventh and Madison streets last Friday night and escaped after a long chase by the police.

The men who stopped Gardner swooped up to the curb in their large car, leaped out and pressed two guns against him.

A gold watch and $10 in money was taken and within a few seconds the bandits were speeding away. There was no license plate on the car, Gardner said, but he recognized the make and is certain he could identify both the car and the men.

To Get Away All Burglar Wanted, And He Got Wish

Confronted by a burglar in the hallway as he stepped in the door of his home last night, H. C. Broderick, 5815 Fleming avenue, was compelled by the marauder to throw up his hands and back into the living room and sit down.

"I haven't taken a thing," said the burglar. "All I want to do now is get away. You sit down and keep quiet until I get a start."

After he had backed Broderick into a chair, he turned and fled. The police were called, but a search of the neighborhood failed to reveal any trace of the burglar.

Home, Happiness Are Gifts to Despondent Newlyweds

Home, work and happiness are the possessions today of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams, who on last Friday morning faced divorce and want. Had not the wife and the husband both sought the Everyman's Club at Tenth and Franklin streets for comfort and there met C. H. Shepherdson, one of the secretaries, the story might not have ended in true fairy tale style.

"I love my wife and baby, but I have no home to go to because my wife listens to apartment house rates' advice," said Williams, whose wife and her child journeyed with him by motorcycle across the continent from Pennsylvania. The wife had sworn to a warrant for his arrest on grounds of desertion and gone out to seek a job. The arrival of the couple was almost simultaneous. While Williams told his tale, Lieutenant Schroeder sauntered by the clubrooms. The young man, fearing police interference, ran away. Later he returned and was summoned to the clubrooms.

"I need work and $100 to go to my home in Missouri, where my father is well-to-do," declared Williams. "I would take my wife and child away, where we can be happy."

A woman asking for a gardener to occupy a small two-room house interrupted the confession. She was persuaded to meet Williams and his wife. The home and work were provided.

BALLOON GOES ASTRAY

Blown out of its course by adverse winds, the new gas balloon "Idora," which left here yesterday afternoon bound for Sacramento, piloted by former Lieutenant Charles C. Bradley with mail for the mayor of Sacramento, landed at Livermore instead of at the capital city. The lack of a fresh breeze at 5000 feet changed the course of the balloon. A landing was made on the ranch of Dr. D. B. Doherty, five miles from Livermore.

How Can I Save My Hair?

The answer to that question now comes at last from no less an authority than F. A. Thompson & Co., one of the largest and oldest pharmaceutical houses in America, a house which for many years has manufactured the staple medicines for your physicians and druggists. The answer to your question, therefore, is

You Can Save Your Hair Only By Destroying The Germ That Destroys Your Hair

After many laboratory experiments, we have finally worked out a highly active hair food which is also a "baccilicide" or destroyer of that germ. We have given this remedy a trade-name easy to remember and have called it "FAMO Hair and Scalp Remedy".

FAMO

Will Destroy that Germ

We absolutely guarantee it with our reputation and your money back.

There is such a rich hair nourishment in FAMO and such a quick reaction against this germ that if you will use this remedy daily your scalp will become clean and lovely. The dandruff will disappear because the germ has been destroyed. And your hair will take on a healthy and natural gloss and luxuriant growth such as you have not known in years.

Dandruff the Result—Not the Cause

The trouble heretofore has been that people have mistaken dandruff for the cause, whereas it is only the result of this germ disease. The germ which destroys your hair attacks the glands of the hair near the hair root. And dandruff is merely the oil which these glands when so attacked throw off and which dries into little flakes upon the scalp.

To get rid of dandruff does not get rid of the germ. But to get rid of the germ does get rid of dandruff. And FAMO destroys that germ.

FAMO Has No Alcohol

Our final problem was how to keep our remedy in pure medicinal liquid form without alcohol. For any Doctor knows that alcohol if used often will dry the scalp, make the hair brittle and turn it gray. We finally solved this problem and FAMO contains no alcohol!

If you are unable to purchase FAMO from the local dealer in your city send 10c with this coupon for a sample bottle.

The flowers best suited to your house

Often the beauty of a house may be ruined—in one sense of the word—by the color of the flowers planted in the garden.

When you are ready to start your flower garden, be sure to take into consideration the color of your house. If it be a dark brown, there is no color more effective than red. The geranium is excellent to use under these conditions.

If your house is a neutral color or a combination of several colors—then a combination of colors may be used in your garden. But don't make the contrast too great.

WHERE MODERATES LOST.

In the recent German general elections the Social Democrats and Democrats lost considerable strength in about equally divided two directions—to the Independent Socialists, or radical Socialist Left, and to the German Nationalists and German Peoples party, conservative divisions. The Social Democrats and Democrats were the moderates. Thus they lost to the two extremes.

This is an interesting development in European popular thought and one which also has been manifested in Italy and France. In Germany the cause is described first, as being disappointment among the more radical of the Socialists at the failure of the Ebert government to meet their demands for nationalization of industries and the introduction of other radical schemes; and, second, to disaffection of the more conservative members with the failure to obtain modification of the peace terms, especially regarding their harsh precaution against revival of Pan-Germanism and the Prussian military machine. The discontented went to one of the two extremes. They were not content with things as they were and as they appear destined to be in the immediate future.

In the French elections the moderates also sustained losses, but these went mainly to the conservative or government party. The Socialists, which before the war polled a considerable strength in the parliament and in coalition with other minority groups wielded large power, dropped to a negligible parliamentary quantity. The radicals term the result "reactionary," but it really was a rallying of the people to the government's program of defense and reconstruction.

The question naturally arises, is this tendency of popular sentiment away from moderation toward the views of the extremists a localized movement reflecting peculiar national situations in Germany and France? The answer apparently is, yes. In other belligerent countries—Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Holland, Finland, Scandinavia, Great Britain and the United States—the political and economic aspirations seem to be rational moderation.

Even in Germany, despite all the noise they have made, the extreme radicals polled a relatively small vote and unimportant gains. In the elections of members to the Landtag of Bavaria (for which figures happen to be available), out of a total of 1,852,000 votes, the left wing Socialists polled only 288,613 and the Communists 51,134. These figures are fairly typical of the other German states.

THE SHARK IS DOOMED

The Bureau of Fisheries at Washington announces that it will furnish upon request excellent recipes for the cooking of shark meat. Recently the government has interested tanners to experiment in the production of leather from shark hides and there is now quite a demand for sharks for this purpose. Due to the attractive finish which shark hide takes, a considerable quantity is also used for sword grips, card cases, jewel boxes and other novelties.

But it is utilization of shark meat as food which will spell the doom of this cannibal of the marine population. An expert of the Bureau of Fisheries says that the flesh of young sharks and such small forms as the gray fish is particularly good fresh, but that it is as a preserved product that shark meat specially commends itself. Salted and smoked or kippered, it is said to be excellent, and it may also be salted and dried, flaked or shredded.

There is nothing new about the use of shark meat as food; many peoples have recognized its value and utilized it extensively. In the countries bordering on the Mediterranean Sea and in Great Britain, Norway and Sweden, the shark is prized as a valuable and nutritious food. At Folkestone, England, salted and dried shark meat is marketed as "Folkestone beef." In the United States, however, where there has always been an abundance of fish, game and domesticated animal food, the shark has never become popular. It has appeared only on the tables of a few small seafaring communities.

But, according to the experts, there is no basis for the prejudice in which the shark has been regarded. They believe that before long the shark will be widely recognized as a delicacy of the sea rivaling the cod, skate, bluefish, and other varieties that feed on other fish. Should this come to pass there will be no occasion for surprise. Dr. Samuel Johnson once defined oats as a cereal eaten by people in Scotland and by horses elsewhere. Oats have since become a breakfast dish for the civilized world.

But as soon as people generally turn to eating the shark he will be on his road to extinction. Humanity already has exterminated, by devouring or use as clothing, many species of birds, animals and fish.

A REAL ALLIANCE

In observance of the Fourth of July, Marshal Foch of France sent a moving and impressively amiable letter to his "dear comrades" of the American Legion. The significance of the Field Marshal's expressed sentiments is accentuated by the knowledge that the people of France feel the same way he so eloquently writes.

Referring to Memorial Day, Marshal Foch writes that "France and her army have rendered recently a solemn tribute to the memory of your brothers who have fallen on the battlefields of France for the defense of liberty. We celebrate with you on this Fourth of July the anniversary of your independence," and:

"Noble Washington will remain its eternal champion and our fellow countrymen, Lafayette, Rochambeau and Grasse were its enthusiastic pioneers. Fraternally united by the American victories, our people have piously kept in remembrance this sacred flame of justice and humanity. Your generous spontaneity, your courage, your faith, your broad-mindedness, your disciplined youth, your love, affected us profoundly. Heroes of the dark hours of yesterday, comrades in battle, let us be brothers and faithful friends in the peace efforts of tomorrow."

In these sentiments, not only expressed by the French Field Marshal but felt by the great mass of French and American people, there is an alliance much more useful and lasting than can be described in treaties drafted by diplomats and statesmen. Officials can write a treaty of alliance; then they can denounce and violate it. But the only true alliance is that which exists in the friendly understanding by one people of another, the consanguinity of ideals and aspirations, the recognition that their respective destinies involve mutual interests and call for mutual service.

In view of this, it is not so important that the Anglo-French-American treaty signed by President Wilson in Paris a year and a half ago is ratified by the Senate. The French and American people, insofar as their courses may be brought in contact, will stand together and support each other in any adventure or trouble in which either is indisputably right.

But it is the peculiar genius of each people that it will not support something that is wrong and violative of its fine conceptions of human justice, even though its best friend be involved.

EUGENIE OF FRANCE.

Empress Eugenie of France, who died in Madrid yesterday, at the age of ninety-four years, lived a colorful life. Undoubtedly she had many happy moments, for she loved to talk to little children and to pick flowers in the Tuilleries and the Bois de Boulogne. But these were only moments of self-willed relief from the sorrows and tragedies and disappointments, the perils and fears, by which the former empress counted her years from the day of her marriage to Napoleon III.

Scarcely had she become the first lady in the empire—she was married in 1853—than the signs of war began to appear on the German horizon, where Bismarck was planning the enlargement of the Prussian realm and looking greedily upon Alsace and Lorraine. She felt with all possible bitterness the defeat of MacMahon at Sedan, accepted because there was no other way the treaty Thiers signed at Versailles in 1871, and then saw the Republic again replace the empire.

For forty-five years she hoped that France would regain her losses, and then she saw the world war come, and lived to realize that victory was to restore the martyred provinces and in a measure repay France for her suffering. But being human, and loving life, children and flowers, she realized the terrible cost and her happiness was limited.

Maintaining her faculties until the last, the Empress Eugenie was able to envision a more glorious future for her country than she had thought possible during the fifty years passed in the shadow of the kaiser's mailed fist. In patience, courage, hope and indomitable will, she was a typical citizen of France.

Official records of shipbuilding in the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30th last show that there was built and officially numbered by the Bureau of Navigation a total of 2241 vessels of an aggregate gross tonnage of 3,860,481 tons. This was 81 ships of a gross tonnage of 700,000 tons more than were constructed in the previous fiscal year. The peak of production under the war program of shipbuilding was attained between September and February, 1919, or over two years after the program was started. In that period production went on at the rate of 4,250,000 tons a year. This speaks well for the shipbuilding capacity of the country, especially in view of the fact that the shipping board was reducing its construction as much as possible.

NOTES and COMMENT

The difficulty of tracking an elephant across a plowed field has never been considered insuperable, and it would not seem to be impossible for the modern sleuth to run down eight barrels of brandy, carried off from a bonded area government guarded warehouse in a truck. Often such loot as diamonds is recovered. It might be supposed that eight barrels of stuff would be more difficult to hide.

The Fresno Republican as usual picks the flaw: "If there were no better argument for Progressives supporting the Republican ticket than that assigned by Senator Johnson, we fear there would be few to follow his leadership. Senator Johnson has nothing to say in favor of the Republican candidate, and nothing in defense of any part of the Republican platform except the League of Nations plank. Even that he concedes is evasive and ambiguous."

The Merced Star makes it plain: "Press despatches tell us that $1700 was recently paid for a Texas goat and $600 for an Oregon sheep. The difference is easy to explain. Because Texas is a great goat state, the Democratic party retained the duty on mohair but cut the duty on wool."

The depositor of the wrecked Santa Rosa Savings Bank have been paid in full. Probably some of them suffered from lying out of their money fifteen months, but so few banks which go down in smash that way ever pay a considerable percent of deposits that they ought to be satisfied. The deposits amounted to $653,233.62.

The Watsonville Pajaronian hints at an experience: "The people in Watsonville who claim that newspapers aren't read, don't realize the awful commotion that is created when some one's name is left out of the report of an entertainment."

Economic hint from the Richmond Independent: "Chewing gum has advanced in price, and the economical thing to do is to keep a record of places where the used wads have been stuck. In that way there will be a minimum of wastage."

The herbage is growing green and luxuriant from the soil of cancer, according to a letter from France. It is a merciful way that nature has of hiding the scars of war.

The Marysville Appeal claims the reward: "Some one suggests that fame and fortune await the person who can discover a substitute for gasoline. Will, here are three: Feet, street cars, horses. Now, bring on that fortune!"

Apparent attempt of the Martinez Gazette to popularize an institution: "Front porches are in political style again, my friend in social style. The good old front porch has done more for America than the front seat in the automobile ever did."

Scientific speculation from the Richmond News: "Two Esquimaux kiss by rubbing noses together, and that is the way fish make love, also. Maybe that accounts for the saying, 'You poor fish.'"

Cobb says Cox "kept us out of McAdoo." He might have added, "He'll keep us out of the White House," "us" meaning the Democrats.—Hanford Sentinel.

Cryptic item from the Redding Searchlight: "The hot weather is conducive to a run on the marriage license bureau. The pleasure is all theirs."

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

Judge Gregory has a fellow feeling for one who feels it is necessary to go fishing and to have an outing. Because Mrs. Chester Gates, one of the jurors in the case of the Cordus Irrigation Company versus A. T. and H. M. Allender, wished to accompany her husband on a fishing trip last week, Judge Gregory adjourned the case until July 20.—Oroville Register.

In 1909 William Leech observed that a tomato plant on his ranch on the Kern mesa survived the frosts. This fact came to the attention of Clinton L. Worden of San Francisco. Worden had considerable land here and near Edison and immediately began an investigation. It was decided that Leech should experiment with oranges, and the following year the first Edison groves were started. The Edison oranges are now well known, particularly as the first fruit to reach eastern markets in the fall.—Eakersfield Californian.

Now there's that Los Gatos postmaster—Lee Darnall. He's a Democrat and always has been, and he's a rip-roarin' good one, too. Was born that way, way back in his early days. Lee and the writer have been good friends for more than twenty years; and while the writer is a Republican he has maintained a respect and kindly feeling for Lee all these years; one reason for this is, perhaps, that the writer always did have a sort of tender feeling for a lonely man, and Lee was the only Democrat in town.—Los Gatos Mountain Realty.

A number of the delegates to the National Democratic convention visited Los Gatos and other parts of the valley Sunday. It was their only opportunity to see some of the wonders of this section, as they had been confined all the previous week in listening to "key-note" talks, witnessing political controversies and compromises, and being made victims of a multitude of ballot-takings.—Los Gatos News.

All the Democratic convention needed in order to finish up its business promptly was a hot weather. For five days the bunch milled around like lost sheep.—Hanford Sentinel.

EUROPEAN TRADE RECOVERY

Since the Armistice Exports From Europe Have Increased Much Faster Than Imports—Ratio of Imports to Exports Now Approaching the Pre-War Status.

By DR. FRANK M. SURFACE.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The principal countries of Europe are making a heroic struggle to repair the damages done to their commerce and finance by the war. With a gross debt equal to 50 per cent of their total wealth it is going to be a long and tedious struggle. The reports received within the last few months indicate that the first step is being taken and that the first step is being taken and that the first step is being taken.

RELATIVE VALUES OF FOREIGN TRADE COMPARED TO PRE-WAR		United Kingdom		France		Italy
Imports	Exports	Imports	Exports	Imports	Exports	Imports	Exports
Pre-war	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0	100.0
1914	95.3	85.1	77.7	74.3	81.7	93.2	93.2
1915	116.5	81.1	133.9	60.3	131.4	105.9	105.9
1916	129.7	101.2	184.0	77.8	284.4	130.3	130.3
1917	145.5	100.0	198.0	62.5	390.9	139.5	139.5
1918	180.0	88.2	270.7	72.0	448.1	141.1	141.1
1919	222.7	150.9	351.4	124.5	451.5	218.8	218.8

Taking 1914, which marked the close of the war, it is seen that imports into the United Kingdom were 50 per cent greater in value than before the war, while exports had decreased nearly 11 per cent. For France imports increased 170 per cent and exports decreased 28 per cent. Italy showed a gain of 348 per cent in imports and an increase of 41 per cent in exports. In 1919, both imports and exports showed a further increase, but on the whole a much larger gain was made in exports than in imports. Imports in the ratio of imports to exports.

RATIO OF IMPORTS TO EXPORTS.		United Kingdom		France		Italy
Pre-war	1913	1919	1920	Pre-war	1913	1919	1920

1919	222.7	150.9	351.4	124.5	451.5	218.8	218.8

Before the war England imported $122 worth of commodities for every dollar's worth she exported. In 1918 the ratio was $2.47 to every dollar exported. This dropped to $1.67 in 1919 and for the first five months of 1920 the ratio is $1.36 to one showing that England is now almost back to the pre-war ratio. France starting from a pre-war ratio about the same as England showed a ratio of imports to exports about twice as large in 1918 and 1919. In the early months of 1920 this has been reduced to $2.24 to each dollar imported.

These figures show that so far as the relation of exports and imports are rapidly getting back to normal. (Copyright, 1920).

HEALTH and HAPPINESS

What You Can Do to Ward Off Dangers of Seasickness

By DR. LEONARD K. HIRSCHBERG, A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

Perhaps you are one of the fortunate mortals who expects to take a sea voyage this summer. If you are not even thus blessed you still can get seasick by riding in an elevator, a canoe or a train.

If you are one of those who easily "cave in at the knees," have a "grog feeling," become giddy or nauseated and ready in a way to give up the ghost, you wish, of course, to know what to do.

Mal-de-mer, the malady of the sea, is usually preventable, although there are some persons so "landular" temperamental and emotional by inheritance, disposition and nature as to maintain the state of unstable equilibrium known as seasickness, no matter what they do. Nevertheless, clogged-up, constipated, glutinous, fatigued persons are more prone to this dizziness, hollowness and nausea than is one who is physiologically clear and fresh. Obviously, before you go aboard ship, take a sail or place yourself where you may be subjected to seasickness and observe these directions:

Sleep soundly for eight hours; have your stomach and intestines thoroughly active; keep outdoors and in the sun; have your muscles in fine fettle; have your eyes well-corrected with proper glasses; have your ears in good condition.

Do not undereat, nor be gluttonous, but have something in the way of pabulum every two or three hours. Six fair meals on shipboard are not too much.

Drink lots of tea, coffee and water, but take no alcoholic drinks. These measures have often ward-off mal-de-mer.

This disorder, however, like land vertigo, is sometimes intimately associated with ear trouble, eye strain, thyroid excesses, and muscular incoordination.

The remedies for sea-sickness are as the sands on the seashore, which means there is no curative glove to fit exactly the troubled hand. Whenever everybody has a "cure" for cold, joint-ache or sea-sickness, you may be sure possibly of two facts; one is that several origins are masking under one and the same name, and the other is that there is no "cure"—only a relief—an entirely different matter.

Sea-sickness is thus no different from the rest. Help is obtainable on this basis:

A laxative every day while at sea; active exercises, sunlight, deck air and lots of sleep; plain food and enough every few hours, but not too much; pepper, salt or much seasoning. Perhaps effervescent drinks and bromides aid some persons, but active purges are generally preferable.

Cotton stuffed in the ears, dark glasses on the eyes, have seldom helped anyone, but are harmless to try. On the whole, those who suffer too severely despite these remedies had better "go to sea on land."

SEEING BLACK.

CHILD, ON-AUTO, RIDE, AVERS SHE WAS FED POISON

Luella Huntington, 12, grand-daughter of Mrs. J. S. Jamison, of 1641 Fountain street, Alameda, is in the Mission Emergency hospital, where she is recovering from the effects of ant poison which, she says, was given her Sunday on a ride in an automobile from Alameda to San Francisco by way of Niles.

The child appeared at the Potrero police station at 1 o'clock this morning carrying an empty bottle which had contained the ant paste.

She said two men stopped and asked her to ride in Alameda yesterday, that she went; that they gagged her after forcing her to eat the ant paste, when she screamed, and ultimately they threw her out of the machine late Sunday night in the Potrero district.

She declared that the party crossed the automobile ferry at about 8:30 o'clock in the evening.

Detection home authorities admitted that the Huntington girl has previously been taken into custody, but has never been held. Alameda police this morning said that the girl had run away from home several times and the police had been asked to locate her.

COURT ADMITS WILL TO PROBATE

The final chapter in the will contest involving the late Mrs. Hannah Rendell, was written this morning, when Superior Judge E. C. Robinson admitted her will to probate, following the submission of proof concerning the same by attorneys Bert Schlesinger and H. D. Wise, representing the proponents.

In her first will Mrs. Rendell left much of her property to her favorite niece, Elmer E. Hill, an orphan of E. Martin. In a will written shortly afterward, following an unsuccessful attempt on the part of these relatives to have her declared incompetent, and themselves appointed her guardians, she cut them both off with $1. They contested the second will, charging undue influence and unreasonableness of mind.

The will probated leaves sums of $1000, $500 and less to a group of relatives and divides the remainder between thirteen nephews and nieces, including Mrs. Wise.

Berkeley Puts New Tax Rate at $1.58

BERKELEY, July 12.—Berkeley's tax rate for the new fiscal year will be $1.58, according to an announcement this morning of Mayor Louis Bartlett, following an all-day session of the council yesterday in an effort to trim the budget in keeping with the city's finances. According to the mayor's estimate, the tax will be divided as follows:

General fund $1, school 35 cents, libraries 9 cents, interest and bonds 14 cents.

SCOTTS FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Leah M. Reynolds-Hetz, 1820 Carlton street, Berkeley, has filed suit for divorce against Frank Otto Hertz, a former army man. Attorney Ralph R. Blitts, who represents Mrs. Hertz, said that Hertz has deserted his wife and his whereabouts is not known.

Los Angeles Starts Probe Of Gasoline Shortage; Oil Seizures Threatened

(By International News Service.)
LOS ANGELES, July 12.—An investigation to determine the reason for the acute gasoline shortage prevailing in Los Angeles and vicinity and to devise means to remedy the situation was begun here today by the board of public utilities.

Officials of the big oil corporations were requested to appear before the board. Notices were served on such concerns as the Standard, Union, Ventura, Puente and other oil companies calling attention to the investigation, which opens late this afternoon.

Charges of manipulations to create an artificial shortage or "famine" will be laid before the oil company heads and will be hotly denied, it is said. No grand jury probe has been called.

County Supervisor J. B. Bean, confronted with data showing that the conduct of such institutions as the county hospital, constabulary patrol and other departments are threatened by the gasoline "famine" existing here, announced today that the board of supervisors would seize sufficient gasoline to supply county hospital ambulances and necessary official motor vehicles "regardless of the protests of oil companies affected by the seizures."

County and city gasoline supply has been cut 60 per cent, which leaves fuel insufficient for imperative uses, it was said.

FIRM FINED FOR WORMS IN PIES

The Piedmont Bakery, 3829 Broadway, J. Dietrich and E. Straub, proprietors, was fined $50 in the police court this morning on a charge of using wormy raisins in pies. Professor E. J. Lea, head of the state food laboratory, was present. The defendants pleaded not guilty at the preliminary hearing a week ago.

C. B. Heizer, food and drug officer for the state board of health, testified that the samples taken from filling being prepared for use contained "live worms."

"Not raisins, but mince pies?" queried Judge Harry Puffer, sitting for Judge Mortimer Smith.

"LIFE" IN PIES
"No, your honor," responded Heizer. "Mince pies contain five per cent animal life. These contained 14 per cent."

The bakery has been furnishing 600 pies daily to the shipyards. Samples of the raisins filling were offered in court.

Straub, following the court action, made the following statement:

"Those raisins were bought six months ago and were supposed to be of the best. They looked perfectly good and you could not see the worms with the naked eye. As soon as we were told they contained worms we quit using them."

Former U.S. Senator O. G. Foelker, attorney for the firm, said that the concern has been paying the highest prices for fruit; that the discovery of the wormy raisins brought into play and extremely unusual circumstance, and that as soon as the condition of the fruit was discovered, it was thrown away.

CONVICTION NOT VISIBLE

Foelker said: "We bought sixty boxes of raisins from a San Francisco firm at the market price. They were all raisins. We bought one or two boxes and then an inspector discovered under the microscope that they were wormy. This condition was not visible to the naked eye. 'Naturally,' when we were informed of this state of affairs we ceased to sue the raisins."

HUSBAND CLAIMS BALM OF $25,000

Losing his bride a month after their marriage in Oakland on May 17, 1920, who has since sued him for divorce, charging cruelty, William Heizer, proprietor of a restaurant at 1759 Sixteenth street, today filed a heart balm suit against N. Lena, 2257 Encinal avenue, Alameda, a contractor, for $25,000 damages. The suit is filed by Attorney A. T. MacDonald.

Heizer charges that his wife, Mrs. Bertha Heizer, left him on June 20 after declaring that she knew a man with an automobile, after he had refused to let her take his machine. Since that time his wife has frequently been seen joy riding with Lena, he states, and avers that his married man, was willing to get a divorce and marry her.

In the suit for alienation of affection Heizer charges Lena with using "falsehoods and other insidious wiles" to gain the affection of his wife. He also filed an answer and complaint to the divorce suit of his wife in which she asked for $100 a month alimony, alleging that her husband has an income of $800 a month from his business. Heizer denies he has this income and avers she was using a common law property. He also denies the charges of his wife that he flew into rages, called her names, ordered her out of his store and once threw her out of bed and knocked her unconscious.

Glass in Slayer's Brain Blamed For Officer's Murder

BERKELEY, July 12.—That Senso Quiroz, a Mexican, who was hanged for murder in San Quentin prison in February, 1919, was not responsible for the act for which he paid with his life, is indicated in the discovery of a piece of glass at the base of his brain which doctors admit would account for his abnormality. The discovery was made at the medical college of the University of California by lecturing physicians who dissected the brain before a class of students last week.

Surgeons are at a loss to explain how the glass became lodged in Quiroz' brain.

Quiroz was hanged for killing Constable R. G. Carter of Tulare, in a running gun fight. He did not speak English and when the sentence was translated to him by an interpreter he said in court:

"Now you can bring me some meat, potatoes and a cup of coffee."

SENIOR PACHECO QUITS FRY PANS; LANDED IN FIRE

Senor Juan Jose Pacheco, grandson of the president of Bolivia, student of the University of California and dishwasher at the Hotel Fairmont, is in jail.

Senor Pacheco has been in so many places since he arrived in this country that his experiences have been so varied that this latest episode does not perturb him. It is by reason of a watch which Jose Melia, fellow Bolivian, missed that Don Juan is not washing dishes on the hill today.

Supplied with an allowance from Bolivia and possessed of a certain romantic personality and connection he has been cutting quite a swath out Berkeley way during the school year. But Don Juan found swatting quite expensive, so when the vacation came he told friends he must go back to that dear Bolivia, and retired to the kitchens of the San Francisco hotel, where he has been washing dishes and saving his money for another college year.

But now the Melia missed his watch and told the police that Senor Pacheco had it. Don Juan protests innocence.

Man Asks Help in Search for Wife

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Charles Leone of 4237 Hossia street, Oakland, asked the police of San Francisco to assist in locating his 18-year-old wife, Elone, who disappeared from their home July 5. When Mrs. Leone disappeared she took a suitcase containing her personal belongings and their 8 months old baby. The baby she gave away to a girl in Oakland. It was turned over to the police and later returned to Leone. Since then no trace has been found of Mrs. Leone. She is described as being of dark complexion, 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighing 154 pounds.

WAGE INITIATIVE LOOMS, FIREMEN TELL COMMISSION

Continuing their efforts to obtain further salary increases, members of the fire department this morning notified the city council of their intention to circulate an initiative petition to secure the passage of an ordinance raising the wages of firemen unless the measure is adopted by the officials.

An affidavit filed in behalf of the firemen was placed before the council signed by Arthur Bergfeld and accompanied by the proposed ordinance putting into effect a new wage scale for all members of the department.

After a lengthy discussion of the issue the entire subject was referred to F. F. Morse, commissioner of Public Health and Safety, and H. L. Hagen, city attorney, and their investigation will look towards the possibility of placing the question of salary and wage increases for all city employees before the people.

Under the charter provisions governing the procedure in such cases, the council has five days within which to pass the ordinance offered, thus avoiding an election, or to give their reasons for not putting the measure into effect.

The council was informed by Lon W. Cummings, city clerk, of the possibility of the ordinance being placed on the ballot at the primary county election next month, otherwise the securing of the necessary signatures will force a special city election.

The new ordinance proposed by the firemen provided for the following monthly wage scale: Chief, $350; first assistant chief, $260; second assistant chief, $260; superintendent of engines, $210; battalion engineer, $180; captain, $180; engineer, $180; lieutenant, $180; chief operator, $170; stoker, $165; hoseman, $165; substitutes, $147 with an allowance of $2 for contributions to the relief and pension fund.

Valuable Violin Is Taken by Burglars

An old violin of great value was stolen from the apartment of Miss Anna Valley, 1516 Harrison street, by burglars last night. Miss Valley told the police the violin was a family heirloom. Nothing else was taken.

Phillip Tuller, 1331 Fourteenth street, reported to the police that burglars had broken into his store last night by smashing a rear door. Two watches were taken and the cash register was rifled.

Entering the kitchen of the home of Mrs. Alta Nankin, 1554 Seventh street, last evening, burglars stole several pieces of jewelry which Mrs. Nankin estimated worth $100.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—A flask on the hip has gone into the category of a common nuisance, according to an information returned in the United States Court this morning. The "nuisance" consisted of a quart bottle three-quarters full of whiskey. Riley was held under $500 bond.

Coffee Truths

Right From the Shoulder by LONG THE COFFEE MAN

A great many of our customers have come to us with the question, "How can you sell the quality of coffee for 40c per pound, which others sell from 50c to 60c per pound?"

There is a Very Good Reason why

In the first place in our way of doing the coffee business we do away with the profits of four middlemen. We import direct from the plantation and sell straight to the consumer. We have no agents, no solicitors, no delivery, no premiums; thereby doing away with an expense of at least 10c per pound. We do not put our coffee in expensive cans which cost at least 10c each. Remember, somebody has to pay for those cans and you can depend upon it, it is the consumer who foots the bill. Why pay for a can with every pound of coffee you buy and throw it away? It is virtually paying 10c for something that is worth nothing to you. Besides when you buy coffee in a can you are liable to get coffee that has been on the grocer's shelf for six months or a year and you know stale coffee is not good coffee.

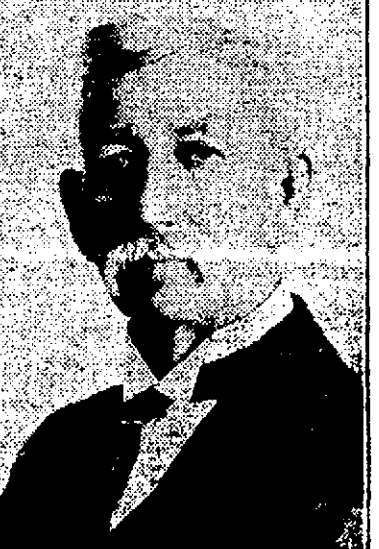

With us you are sure of getting fresh coffee all the time, for we take off a roast of coffee every thirty minutes, so you get all the nice flavor and aroma of the coffee. We have the finest and most up-to-date retail coffee plant in the west. Our coffee is handled from start to finish by automatic machinery. We can deliver 15 pounds of coffee over the counter per minute.

It would be well worth your while to come in and inspect our plant and see it in operation. We are coffee experts, we know coffee from A to Z and we are here to serve you with this knowledge and give you a coffee value you cannot duplicate elsewhere.

Our sales aggregate about 50,000 pounds per month. We have about 15,000 regular customers and surprising as it may seem, we are now supplying nearly one-fourth of the population of Oakland with this delicious coffee. These are the reasons:

The right business methods, the right kind of coffee and superior service to our customers. If you are not already with us we suggest that you try our coffee. You will surely become a permanent and satisfied customer and save from $10 to $25 per year on your coffee bill.

Yours for Good Coffee and Service

Industrials Weak
 But Rails Display
 Extensive Advance
 NEW YORK, July 12.—The New York Evening Sun in its financial report this afternoon said:
 "The stock market today, at least so far as industrials were concerned, showed the effects of further heavy profit-taking as a result of last week's rapid advance. The list was decidedly reactionary at the opening.
 "Railroad stocks, on the other hand, moved forward into new high ground, displaying independent strength. The whole group rounded out the most extensive and sustained advance it has enjoyed in a number of weeks. Strength in this group, which was in anticipation of the announcement of a substantial freight rate increase this month, drew attention from the industrials and facilitated realizing sales in those stocks.
 "The rails maintained a fair portion of their gain, despite weakness in many of the industrials."

LOCAL PRODUCE
 The week opened on the produce market with a dull market marked by slow sales at unchanged prices. Potatoes in baskets were plentiful and sold 25c cheaper than last week. A few small offerings there are of poor grade, but their scarcity kept the price at 40c.

Keep Silent Is Ruling To Women

SAN JOSE, July 12.—Mrs. Edith Leshner Cox of this city may never hold conversation or communication with her husband, William H. Cox, of San Jose, according to a decision which was handed down last week by Superior Judge H. B. Richter in the case of the divorce of the couple. The penalty of such conversation or communication is a prison term of one year in the San Bernardino county jail to be served by the husband.

Mrs. Cox, the first wife of the double-married defendant, saved her husband from the prison term by a decision of the court. She was allowed to remain in the home, but she is forbidden to have any communication with her husband. The court ruled that the husband must keep silent to his wife.

The court's decision was based on the fact that the husband had been convicted of a crime and was therefore disqualified from holding any office or position of trust. The court ruled that the husband must keep silent to his wife in order to protect the public interest.
